Objective: Secure a position on a development team where my experience in business, insight into the consumer, and skills in software engineering can all be utilized.

Summary of Qualifications:

Program development has been a passion of mine for a long time. I followed a different path than most which provided me with valuable business and people skills. Now I have rediscovered my love for the development side of games and can bring the tools from both aspects of my education into application. A better understanding of the user, combined with an understanding of the principles of business, provides with a framework upon which the tools of software engineering can be used to great effect.
